

A green sweat bee, or halictid, is robbing nectar from Impatiens capensis (orange jewelweed). Unlike some larger bees, the green sweat bee can easily access nectar from inside the jewelweed flower, but instead it is taking advantage of a hole drilled by a larger bee and thus is called a “secondary robber.”

© Mary Free