

A European honey bee (Apis mellifera) is robbing nectar from Salvia guaranitica (anise-scented sage). It is probably using a preexisting hole cut by a carpenter bee and thus is referred to as a “secondary robber.” Honey bees sometimes follow carpenter bees to take advantage of their handiwork and gain easy access to nectar.

© Mary Free