

Syrphidae member, transverse flower fly (Eristalis transversa), pictured feeding on Rudbeckia fulgida (orange coneflower), is found in the eastern United States. It feeds on flower nectar and pollen as well as aphid honeydew.

© Mary Free